EXTENDING BUSINESS

C. U. MANDIS TELLS OF NEW BRANCH OF GLENDALE
MILL COMPANY

That it is possible to get business outside of Glendale and to extend the area of operations into the district around this city has always been the opinion of C. U. Mandis, of the Glendale Mill Company. He has recently found that the business methods employed by the Glendale Mill company have attracted attention outside of this city and only recently discovered that the strict regard paid to turning out good work that has always characterized the company has borne fruit in other places.

"We have just added the manufacture of window wire screens to our business," said Mr. Mandis. "Not that we have not always manufactured window screens, but that now we have entered on the manufacture of them on a large scale. Up to this time people erecting houses in Glendale have been in the habit of buying their screens from the city and have passed over the Glendale Mill company in their orders for this commodity."

"Now we find that we can manufacture these screens in a manner at once attractive and efficient. Here are a number of window screens. We are manufacturing for a customer who is erecting six houses in Hollywood. We got this order because our customer one time noticed that the dressed lumber we sent out from our mill was carefully sanded and sent out in first-class shape. I have been in the habit of examining the work sent out to see if it were properly done and have on several occasions turned back to the mill work I considered imperfect in some small particular. This practice has been noticed and has proved profitable."

"In making these screens I have given instructions to our men not to use any imperfect material, whether the dressed lumber of which the screens are made or the wire itself. The screen frames are made with the utmost care of well seasoned lumber. The joints are carefully fitted. The wire screen itself is fixed in the frame by a modern method. The groove into which the wire is pressed is part of the frame and moulded with it. The frame is brought under this machine which presses it into the groove and turns it down there in such a manner as to keep it taut equally and in all directions. In this it is greatly superior to the old method by which the wire was merely tacked down and then covered with a molding that added nothing to the tension that held the wire in place."

"This work used to be done with a hand wheel in the form of screen making that preceded this. This was not found so satisfactory as the modern wheel and screw which you see in action. When finished these screens are absolutely taut. They are completed in a workmanlike manner and give a finished appearance to any window. For these reasons they are coming into demand."

"We aim at perfection in material and workmanship, and keep our prices as low as is compatible with those qualities. We never sacrifice quality. We have already fitted up various establishments in the city with these screens. The new Calvin Whiting house on West Fifth street is fitted up with them; so is the new Peter's block."

"I believe that in this matter we have accomplished one of the aims of our business—to have our output a little better than that of anyone else or at all events to have it in such shape that it need not fear comparison. I foresee that this part of our business is to increase greatly. Already I hear that we are to get the contract for screening another nine houses in Hollywood and I look for an increased business during the coming season in Glendale."

HIS EIGHTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Davis, First and Adams, entertained on the evening of June 27, in honor of Mr. Charles Mallett, father of Mrs. Davis, who on that date attained his eighty-fifth birthday. The guests present were: Mrs. Virginia Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Nan Kervis and family, Mrs. Moore and her daughters Alice Moore and Cosa Moore and her son Lee Moore, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Mallett of Glendale, Mrs. Harry Stevenson and her daughter Miss Eula Stevenson of Glendale; Mrs. Stevenson, Sr., of Colorado. Mr. Mallett received a number of beautiful and appropriate presents and was also presented by the guests with a large birthday cake. After refreshments the guests departed wishing Mr. Mallett many happy returns of the day.

WANT VOLUNTEERS

E. D. JOHNSON AND JOS. V. GRIFFIN
LEAD IN MOVEMENT
TO ORGANIZE COMPANY

In anticipation of a possible call for additional volunteers to aid in the Mexican difficulty, a mass meeting will be held at the Glendale Fire House, 915 West Broadway, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a company of volunteer infantry. This movement is in line with the activities in other communities where preparedness is receiving due consideration. E. D. Johnson of the firm of Johnson & Lyons of Glendale and Jos. V. Griffin of Tropico and others are the leaders in this movement and these gentlemen are to be congratulated upon their patriotic spirit.

All patriotic and loyal citizens in sympathy with this project are urged to be present and assist in forming the company. A similar meeting will be held in the Tropico city hall Friday evening.

Mr. Johnson grew up at Garnet, Kansas, where he enlisted for service in the Philippines. During the year he spent with Uncle Sam's army in our island possessions he had the unique distinction of being guardian of the Stars and Stripes, being color bearer for General Funston, who was at that time colonel of the 20th Kansas.

Mr. Griffin was a member of the 22nd New York Militia during the Spanish-American war but his regiment was not called out during that war. He is the son of a veteran of the civil war and is Division Commander of the California-Pacific Division of the Sons of Veterans as well as Past Commander of N. P. Banks camp.

ACTIVE LOCAL FIRM

According to W. G. Boyd, of the building and contracting firm of Retts & Boyd, Glendale is enjoying a fair share of activity in the building business. During the past year this enterprising firm has erected twelve houses in this city and its vicinity. "This," says Mr. Boyd, "is not very extraordinary in the way of business; but it is satisfactory. The building in Glendale is steady and the city is slowly but constantly increasing."

"Our business has extended to Los Angeles, where we are building one house at present, and to Burbank, where we have already erected houses and are engaged on one which we have begun this week. We are also building a 5-room house at 325 N. Louise street, for W. J. Clendenin. This house has already been sold, although in the earliest stages of building."

"Among other work our firm built the church building for the First Church of Christ, Scientist. This is essentially a city of homes. Los Angeles people are more and more coming to realize the advantage of building and residing in Glendale. I believe that before long a period of building high-class residence buildings in Glendale will begin."

PATRIOTIC PARTY

Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Field, of 239 S. Kenwood street, entertained with a delightful dinner party Tuesday evening, their guests being Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Preston and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Davis. In keeping with the times, the decorations were of a patriotic nature, flags being intermingled with Shasta daisies, Scotch blue bells and blossoms of scarlet hue, all forming a beautiful and inspiring setting for a dinner party. The perfectly appointed table was centered with a bowl of fuchsias, the favors being tiny silk flags.

VACATION IN EAST

Mrs. Harriet E. Latter and daughter, Miss Doris E. Latter, of 316 Boynton avenue, Tropico, left Tuesday, June 20, for an extended vacation in the East. They will stop off in San Francisco, Chicago and Buffalo, their final destination being Canandaigua, N. Y., where they will spend the remainder of the summer visiting relatives and friends. Mr. G. F. Latter expects to join them in the East about the first of August.

DISTURBING THE PEACE

Vincent S. Valdez was arrested Monday night by Captain Lawrence of the local police force on a charge of having been intoxicated and disturbing the peace. The arrest was made in the Dew Drop Inn. Valdez had a saddle horse tied out on the street. This animal was taken to the Glendale stables. Tuesday morning Valdez was arraigned in Judge Whomes' court. He plead guilty and was fined $10.

MEXICAN RAIDERS OVERTAKEN AND KILLED

SIX BANDITS WHO KILLED NEWLY-MARRIED RANCHER
AND HIS BRIDE SHOT BY CAVALRYMEN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
COLUMBUS, N. M., June 28.—Six Mexicans believed to be the raiders who attacked the ranch of Will Parker and his bride of five months near Hachita, N. M. were caught by some of the troopers who pursued them across the Mexican frontier. The cavalrymen caught up with the murderers at daybreak and after a sharp exchange of shots killed them all. The raiders were after cattle.

PROGRESS OF TROOPS TOWARD BORDER

MILITIA OF EASTERN STATES IS BEING MOVED GRADUALLY TO THE MEXICAN FRONTIER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
SAN ANTONIO, June 28.—Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, commander of the Department of the East, notified Gen. Funston that the troops from Massachusetts had started for the border and that the transportation was being carried out without much difficulty. More than half the Illinois troops have been mustered into the federal service. Supplies of ammunition are being accumulated on the border at different points.

REPORTED CARRANZA WANTS ARBITRATION

DE FACTO RULER OF MEXICO SAID TO HAVE APPEALED TO LATIN REPUBLICS TO WORK FOR PEACE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
MEXICO CITY, June 28.—It was reported here today that Gen. Carranza, the de facto president of Mexico had wired the presidents of the different Latin republics of Central and South America to urge the United States to submit the Mexican trouble to arbitration.

THREATEN TO EXECUTE AMERICAN SOLDIERS

FIRING SQUAD AWAITS PRISONERS OF CARRIZAL IF AMERICAN TROOPS ATTEMPT TO RESCUE THEM

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
EL PASO, June 28.—Execution by a firing squad will be the end of the twenty-five American prisoners, captured at Carrizal, and now confined at Chihuahua, if any attempt is made to rescue them. This statement was made by Gen. Trevino this morning. Mexico, he said was prepared for war with the United States.

VIOLENT FIGHTING EAST OF MEUSE

GERMAN ATTACKS ON HILL 320 REPULSED WITH GREAT SLAUGHTER—127th DAY OF BATTLE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
PARIS, June 28.—The German attempt on the Verdun fortifications, which was to have been finished in ten days has now lasted 127 days and the Teutons are no nearer their objective than at first. The Germans made violent attacks east of the Meuse this morning. These attacks were all repulsed. Attacks on Hill 320 were also repulsed, the Germans suffering severely.

ITALIANS CAPTURE AUSTRIAN FORTRESS

ASTICO IN HANDS OF VICTOR EMMANUEL'S SOLDIERS AND AUSTRIANS FLEEING FROM MANY POSITIONS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
ROME, June 28.—By a rapid advance and an irresistible drive the Italian troops sent the Austrians flying from the region of the Arsa valley. The important fortress of Astico fell into their hands. These forts defended the city of Arsiero. The Italians are continuing their offensive. They have captured Monte Giamonde and Garriago. The official statement says that the Austrians have lost 50,000 men within the last few days.

DENIES GERMANS INSPIRED IRISH RISING

SIR ROGER CASEMENT TAKES WITNESS STAND IN HIS OWN DEFENSE IN OLD BAILEY COURT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LONDON, June 28.—Taking the witness stand in his own defense this morning Sir Roger Casement, the former British government official who is accused of inciting rebellion in Ireland, denied that the Irish rebellion was instigated by Germany. He said: "The charge that the Irish rebellion was inspired by the German government is untrue. Those who know me know that I never sold myself to any man or government."

ROUTINE OF MILITIA

HOW STATE'S SOLDIERS ARE GETTING LICKED INTO SHAPE

MOBILIZATION CAMP, SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 27.—This is the week of sore arms here. As soon as the militiamen are mustered into the regular army they are put through a physical examination and then given two "shots in the arm"—one as a protection against smallpox and the other against typhoid. Capt. H. A. Hanigan, U. S. A., started in the actual mustering Monday. As fast as companies were mustered in they were turned over to Major W. F. Lewis, U. S. A., for physical examination and vaccination. The anti-typhoid prophylactic sometimes causes sickness and the hospital corps have made adequate arrangements to care for all soldiers who become ill. Thus far the camp hospital has been entirely free of sick or injured soldiers. A number of soldiers had been vaccinated at their home stations and these will escape a second injection if the United States officers are assured that the serum was properly and effectively administered.

The general spirit of the camp is becoming more jolly and companionable, replacing the gloom and sadness that marked the first few days away from the folks at home. The boys are calling one another by their first names and nicknames and any appearance of dejection is promptly dispersed through the strong bonds of fellowship.

Baseball and boxing are the main forms of pastime, when the boys have a few hours to themselves. But with a good stiff schedule arranged there are few spare moments except on Sunday when the soldiers have the whole day to themselves. Colonel Lon Bond of the Second regiment of infantry has mapped out the following schedule and it will be followed through the week:

First Call—5:45 a. m.
Reveille—5:55 a. m.
Assembly—6:00.
Mess—6:20.
Fatigue—6:50.
Sick—7:00.
First Sergeant—8:00.
First call for drill—7:30.
Assembly—7:40.
Recall—11:45.
Mess—12:00 m.
First call for drill—1:20 p. m.
Assembly—1:30.
Recall—4:30.
Guard mount—4:40.
First call for retreat—5:00.
Assembly—5:10.
Retreat—5:20.
Mess—6:00.
School—7:00.
Tattoo—9:45.
Taps—10:00.

Major S. W. Kay of the cavalry has arranged a schedule just about the same as the above and other regiment commanders will do likewise, once they are well established in camp. Drilling will be in small groups at the start to break in the recruits. As the recruits progress there will be larger formations. It will be observed that the soldiers are put through several hours of drill daily.

Second regiment tents had to be moved to make room for the Fifth and Seventh regiments of infantry. The Fifth and Seventh are composed mainly of old "war horses" who saw service in the Spanish-American war.

TO USE OLD COSTUMES

Many dear memories have been recalled by the resurrection from the depths of trunks, of dresses to be used in the "Cranford Ladies," a clever little sketch taken from Mrs. Gaskell's ever charming book "Cranford." Many of the dresses to be worn are more than 50 years old. One gown worn by the character, Mrs. Mary Smith, represented by Mrs. Freeman Kelly, belonged to Mr. Kelly's mother and is more than 60 years old. It is entirely hand made. There are many others just as interesting. Come and see for yourself, Thursday evening, at St. Mark's Guild hall.

The entertainment is to be given in aid of the little children who are cared for at Deaconess Wilde Children's church home. This day nursery is supported solely by charity and the Woman's Auxiliary is endeavoring to meet an indebtedness that must be paid on the first of the month. Come everybody and help these little children by attending the splendid entertainment which has been arranged. The small sum paid includes refreshments.

MEN ENTERTAIN LADIES

The Men's class of the Christian church entertained the Loyal Women's class very informally and delightfully Monday evening after the regular business meeting of the class. About forty men and women assembled at the church bungalow and spent a very happy social evening, the ladies having nothing to do but enjoy themselves. The men served ice cream, wafers and punch in a very expeditious manner and a delightful impromptu program was enjoyed. The men of this class have on former occasions proved most royal hosts and this affair was no exception.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

The closing banquet of the season of the Tuesday Afternoon club took place at the Masonic Temple, Tuesday afternoon, when 188 members and friends sat down to a five-course luncheon. Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, president of the society, presided. A brief business meeting occupied the attention of the members for a time and afterward the gathering gave itself up to the enjoyment of the day. There were many afterdinner speeches of an entertaining and interesting character. An excellent musical program arranged by Mrs. E. W. Kinney, curator of the Music section, charmed the whole gathering.

JUNE BUSINESS BREAKS RECORD

Mrs. Anna L. Smith, milliner at 1024 W. Broadway, Glendale, says that her millinery business for the month of June far exceeds June of any past year. She attributes a good share of the increase in this month's sales to the fact that wholesale conditions were such in Los Angeles that she could offer her Glendale patrons exceptional values in millinery and the fact that she advertised the same in the Evening News. Her present sale of trimmed hats has been exceptionally successful, and closes Saturday evening of this week.

PLAN FOR CONVENTION

The regular monthly meeting of the Young People's Branch, W. C. T. U., was held at the home of Mrs. Rowe, 516 S. Orange St., Tuesday evening. Mrs. Doughty, state secretary, was present. Mrs. Smart, president of the local union, and Mrs. Lemon, Y. P. B. superintendent, took part in the devotional program. A business meeting in which plans were made for the State Y. P. B. convention which is to be held in Glendale August 24 and 25, followed.

DEATH OF MRS. FRANKS

Mrs. Louise H. Franks, of 1116 Melrose avenue, Casa Verdugo, passed away at her home Tuesday evening, June 27, aged 53 years, 1 month and 21 days. She leaves to mourn her death her husband and three daughters. Funeral services will be held at the Pulliam Undertaking parlors Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Forest Lawn cemetery.

PURCHASES FIVE NEW TYPEWRITERS

The Glendale Commercial School has just received a shipment of five new Remington Standard typewriters to add to the equipment already in use. This home business school is one of Glendale's growing industries, and the enrollment is becoming larger every month.

COLUMBUS AVENUE CIRCLE

The Reading Circle of Columbus avenue met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. W. Yarik, 1447 W. Third street. There was a good attendance.

CALLING OUT THE MILITIA

That the calling out of the State militia all over the country is an excellent lesson in military affairs goes without saying. The call for men has at once revealed the amount of preparation that is yet needed to face even a small affair like war with Mexico. The mere mobilization of the men is not yet nearly completed and their outfitting and equipment leave many things to be desired. There is also a serious lack of ammunition of all kinds and although that can be remedied and is in course of being remedied the fact that there is neither sufficient small arms ammunition nor machine gun, nor field gun ammunition shows what a precarious condition the country would be in if faced by a big power like Japan.

Naturally every day that the war is delayed adds to the equipment and morale and experience of the United States troops. Were it not so the condition on the border would be perilous in the extreme. In two matters the neglect to provide equipment has been criminal rather than negligent. In the first place the army has but few aeroplanes and those few have proved so inefficient that they have been worse than none. When one reflects that all the first-class powers of the world have air fleets of no fewer than 1000 active planes and airships of all kinds and that they are constantly manufacturing more to supply the gaps caused in their ranks it is pitiable to reflect that in Mexico the army had only six planes and that those were so badly constructed that they were worse than useless.

Aeroplanes are the eyes of the army. They are indispensable. With aeroplanes accompanying the scouting party that was ambushed at Carrizal the other day that calamity would have been avoided. Without a whole fleet of aeroplanes the American army in Mexico will be in danger of such calamities at any moment.

Again in the matter of machine guns the United States army is woefully deficient. For the equipment of the small number of men available at present for active service there are only five machine guns for each company or one for each twenty-five men. In the European fighting there is one for each four men and in some sections one for each two men. It is not only that machine guns are lost, that they jam and become useless, that they wear out, but that there are positions in which an army might find that its very existence depended on its supply of this weapon.

It is certain that if war should come in Mexico that the Mexicans will not, as a rule, stand up to fight the American troops in the open field. The war will gradually turn itself into an affair of trenches and barbed wire entanglements as it has done in Europe and in great part it will be a war of treachery and ambush, as at Carrizal. The Teuton lessons that anything is right in war that enables one to beat one's enemy have filtered into the Mexican mind and the United States may look for the fruit of that teaching in war with Carranza and his men.

It is also certain that the Mexicans will obtain the assistance of many trained officers from the Teuton allies. They can spare some without doubt and it is certain that stiffened by Teuton officers the Mexicans would prove dangerous fighters, especially as they would be taught to fight in trenches and behind entanglements as indeed they have already been doing.

It is therefore a good thing that the war is being delayed. It will give the United States time to find itself and to equip itself and not to be compelled to throw raw and untrained troops into the inferno of modern war. Every day adds to the preparedness of the United States; but think what war with a country like Japan would have meant! Japan would have struck first and heavily and what would we have had to oppose them?

It is certain that the lessons of preparedness will not be lost on the country. The people are aroused and are determined that their leaders shall no longer leave the country at the mercy of a foreign foe. This generation knows nothing of the horrors of war and the difficulties of getting ready after war has once been declared. Now is the time for the country to insist that the preparations of the present shall take on a permanent form and that the whole male population of the United States shall be prepared to defend the liberties that cost so much in the past.

SACRIFICES OF THE BIG WAR

What war means to every man, woman and child in a country is easily seen in what Britain is doing at the present moment. There is not an article of daily use that has not vastly risen in price. Matches, for instance, that nearly produced an insurrection many years ago in Britain because Sir Robert Lowe proposed to tax them, have been so heavily taxed that they cost about fourteen cents a box. The family auto has to pay a tax of $95 a year.

So great is the demand of the navy that is blockading the German ports for coal that in many instances it is impossible to get that necessary commodity. Gasoline is now costing 35 cents a gallon in England. Because of the dearth in the paper supply the morning papers are getting smaller and smaller in size.

Out of every dollar a British subject makes he has to turn over a dime to the government, by way of income tax. This does not include the many small taxes the British are paying on everything consumed in their homes. Notwithstanding this the British are cheerfully bearing these burdens and looking only for one end, the beating of their enemies. So closely is the attention of the British public riveted on the war that it forgets these inconveniences. Perhaps the most foolish thing Germany did was to attack the British unarmed and defenseless coast towns and to kill civilians, especially women and children. That has so roused the indignation of the people that it was worth another million men to the British army and helped the government to raise taxation. The Briton is bearing Zeppelin raids as he is bearing increased taxes, without a murmur and with a growing determination to conquer. Beefsteak has always been an English "piece de resistance." In the British regimental messes the company moves to its seats to the air of "The Roast Beef of Old England." Yet the public is

Mrs. Peet and children from Antelope valley spent a few days in our valley this week.
A District Meeting was held Friday, June 23, at the school. This was called for the purpose of employing an architect for the new schoolhouse. It was decided at this meeting to have Allison & Allison, since he cut his work down from 6 per cent to 5 per cent. There were a great number out. There was some discussion at first about the minutes of the last meeting being wrong, but this argument died away, leaving them as they had been written, whether right or wrong. The question concerning what should be done with the old schoolhouse was brought up, but no vote was taken on this, as the motion to adjourn was immediately made.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Slutman have moved on the Gould ranch, near the Childs' place.
The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church held an ice cream and strawberry social in the social room of the church, Tuesday evening, June 27. A good time was enjoyed, and the committee deserves credit for making this a success.
Edith Kraus, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kraus, had an operation on her skull Friday. She is in a very serious condition, but is slowly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and son, and Miss Young spent Sunday in Pasadena, with friends from Chicago.
Mr. and Mrs. McMullin will leave Sunday by boat for San Francisco. They will visit their sons in Frisco. Mrs. McMullin expects to spend about two months in the north, while Mr. McMullin will spend only a week or two.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stultz spend Sunday at Venice, with their son and family.

The Christian Endeavors will meet Sunday evening at 6:30 p. m. The topic discussed will be: "How to Make Ours an Ideal Nation." (1 Pet. 2:1-10). Rev. E. H. Brooks will lead this meeting. Everyone come and hear Rev. Brooks' ideas on this subject.

Mr. Murphy of "Hillside Farm" held a barbecue in his canyon Saturday. There was not less than a hundred men present. This was given in honor of Donald Murphy, who has enlisted in the army and left for Sacramento Sunday evening.
Mr. Paul Corning of Los Angeles, cousin of Mrs. A. G. Williams, spent Sunday at her home on School St.
Rev. Brooks has purchased a heifer from Mr. A. G. Williams. This is a fine cow and Rev. Brooks sure has made a purchase to be proud of.

Mr. Murphy has made extensive improvements in his canyon for his own picnic grounds. He is building a trail on to the top of the mountain, with benches along in certain places, for one to rest, and also enjoy the wonderful scenery.
Mrs. Welch and Frankie Welch are expected here from Three Rivers this week. Mrs. Welch is the sister of Mrs. A. G. Williams, and will therefore make her visit in our valley.
Miss Lulu Green spent Sunday in Lang. Miss Green has been teaching in Lang the past year, and will also teach in the same school this next year.

Mr. Arthur Cawkins of Los Angeles is spending the week with Mr. Harland Durand.
Messrs. Will and John Slutman spent Saturday and Sunday in Antelope valley.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Degrift and sons will occupy the home of Mrs. McMullin during her stay in the North.
Mr. Fenton Knight has had an operation for appendicitis. He has

Personals

Mrs. H. F. Fryer, of 1424 N. Pacific avenue, entertained H. J. Nichols and daughter, Miss May Nichols, of Pomona, Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Abell, 315 N. Maryland avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Whiting, 328 N. Maryland avenue, leave for a trip to San Diego, by auto, at the end of the week.

Mr. Thomas Atkinson, 1221 Milford street, is seriously ill at his residence. Mr. Atkinson has not been in very robust health for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson and family, 200 Orange street, leave at the end of the week for Big Bear valley, where they will enjoy a camping trip among the mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Davis, of 525 S. Central avenue, have entertained during the past few weeks, Mr. C. H. Northfoss, Mr. Charles Libby, and Mr. Charles Matthews, all of Newton, Kansas.

Miss Margaret Lusby, Jackson street, entertained at luncheon Tuesday afternoon, Miss Muriel Turner and Miss Waunita Emery. The young ladies spent part of the afternoon playing tennis.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison and Miss Gertrude Allison, of Riverside, who have been visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of Ivy street, left Monday for their home. Miss Gertrude Allison recently graduated from Riverside High school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Lusby, Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Lusby, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson and family, Miss Edna Learned and Mrs. Lord, Mrs. Wilson's sister, motored to Echo park Saturday, where they spent the day picknicking.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Morgan, of Imperial, Cal., who have been house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Coker, 126 E. Third street, left for San Diego Monday. They spent a week in Glendale, finding it a great change from the heat of the valley, which is intense just at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Joseph, 118 S. Central avenue, returned Saturday from San Diego, where they had spent a pleasant week. The return journey was made by way of the old mission of San Juan de Capistrano, at which the party stopped and viewed the interesting old building. The journey was made by auto.

NEW MANAGER FOR REPAIR DEPARTMENT

R. Lease, recently of Sacramento, has recently taken charge of the repair and service department of W. S. Lee's Cleveland and Harley-Davidson motorcycle agency on Brand boulevard. Mr. Lease is a motorcycle man of over ten years' experience, being connected with the Excelsior factory several years ago. He thoroughly understands all makes of motorcycles and is indeed a valuable acquisition to Mr. Lee's shop. This week $400 worth of new machinery and tools have been installed and Glendale now has a repair shop with as good accommodations and service as can be secured in the city.

LITTLE WORRIES

Little worries and cares wear more than great labors. There is an old saying that "It is not work but worry which kills." There is a quaint old proverb which is very much to the point. It says, "White ants pick a carcass quicker and cleaner than a lion." The meaning of the proverb is very clear. Little cares may more effectively destroy our peace than a great trouble, if we do not have the right kind of faith. Happy is the person who is by nature cheerful and optimistic, who will not let little things worry him and give him an attack of the blues. Being of a sunny disposition, a bright face and a cheerful manner win friends, improve even the health and make the fortunate possessor of such a spirit like a tonic to his associates and a joy to himself.

GLENDAL E W. C. T. U.

Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, 148 S. Kenwood street, will entertain the Glendale W. C. T. U. Friday afternoon, June 30, with a parlor social and a pleasing program. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends to be present.

EAGLEDALE NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. F. Johnson, of Denver, have arrived in Eagle Dale and will occupy for the summer the residence of the Rev. Johnson, missionary to the Hopi Indians, who has just left for his station on the desert.

Mrs. P. H. Ducker, 145 College View avenue, entertained a number of the ladies of that district, Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing and fancy work.

A colored philosopher is reported to have said, "Life, my brethren, am mos'ly made up of prayin' for rain, and then wishin' it would c'lar off." —Presbyterian.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Thursday; westerly winds.

WEST GLENDAL E W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Ruby Smart brought the enthusiasm of a great convention to the company gathered to hear her yesterday at the home of Mrs. Page. We only wish that the person who ignorantly asks, "Why is the W. C. T. U.?" could have been present to be enlightened. It is only by listening to such a report that one can form even some slight idea of the magnitude of the work undertaken by this great band of women, numbering 360,000 in our own country, 10,000 in our own state; each little company working quietly but tirelessly in its own community, moulding public opinion, and ever raising the standard of civic righteousness. A little "mothers' meeting" in an humble parlor is a small matter; but when you multiply it by some thousands, each little company concentrating on the wise and careful training of their children, would you call it insignificant? You may think the little band of children, calling themselves the "Loyal Temperance Legion," scarcely worthy of mention. But when that little company is duplicated in every town, in every state, and the children are becoming apostles of purity, patriotism, and temperance, it is no small matter.

It is not generally known that most of the reform measures such as shorter hours for women, child labor laws and the red-light abatement act originated in the W. C. T. U. For twenty years this organization has kept a representative at Washington, a splendid and efficient worker, who watches every move that is made, wiring information immediately to the states, so that the various auxiliaries may be ever alert.

A measure which was gotten through congress some 18 years ago is only now beginning to reap its harvest in the great tidal wave of temperance sentiment that is sweeping over the country; we refer to the enforced instruction along the lines of scientific temperance in our public schools. There children are becoming the voters now and we see the result in state after state being "voted white." One of the notable exhibits of the convention was a poster display sent by the Indian pupils of our government schools. Each poster was a work of art, and each an original cartoon, showing why California should go dry!

The convention passed resolutions on the Tia Juana nuisance, forwarding the same to the mayor of San Diego, to Gov. Johnson and President Wilson. They also went upon record as to their appreciation of the newspapers of California who dare to be "Dry," and who suffer financial loss in their refusal to print the liquor ads.

A WORD OF THANKS

Finding it impossible to personally thank every one for the many kindnesses shown to myself and family during my recent illness, I take this means of giving expression to my feeling of deep gratitude to every one.

Out of a heart full of love to neighbors and friends, I would say "Thank you."

TROPICO TRUSTEES' MEETING

The Tropico Board of Trustees met in regular session Tuesday evening at the city hall at 7:30 p. m., with President Frank E. Peters, Fred A. Alsapach, Chas. H. Henry and Walter C. Seal present, A. C. Boyce absent. The following city officers were also present: Margaret R. Coleman, clerk; Hartley Shaw, city attorney; I. C. Wasson, street superintendent; J. W. Gould, city marshal, and Dr. W. C. Mabry, health officer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Oberdick, of Boynton street, addressed the board in regard to the condition of the curb and sidewalk on Boynton street, near the Boynton street bridge, and also asked to have his property stakes reset, which had been plowed up by the street contractor. The street superintendent was instructed to have the curb and sidewalk repaired and the city engineer was instructed to set the property stakes along Mr. Oberdick's property.

The city engineer reported that he had received a letter from the Los Angeles city engineer, containing the plans of the improvement of Brand boulevard from the S. P. tracks south to make connections with the new bridge which is to be erected soon. The Los Angeles city engineer wished to know whether or not the city of Tropico had made any arrangement with the Southern Pacific in regard to moving the tower and for an easement across their tracks so that the crossing could be paved, etc. It was the opinion of the city engineer that the present grade and drains established at that point were sufficient and he was instructed to answer the communication and assure them that the 16-inch drains under the S. P. tracks were amply sufficient and that it was the intention of Tropico to get the easement and make the necessary improvement at an early date.

Some of the board seemed to think that the $700, which the S. P. asked for moving their signal tower, was an exorbitant price and after the matter was discussed at some length the tower question was laid over for the present.

The city engineer also reported that a concrete arch culvert, 17x7, for the proposed Hill street improvement, would handle the water at that place and would cost about four hundred dollars less than a girder bridge and that the cost of the arch would be about $1600.

Mr. Green was present and addressed the board in regard to the proposed improvement of Hill street, stating that inasmuch as the property owners along his street had paid for their street improvement themselves he did not think it just that they should be included in an assessment district to pay for the Hill street improvement. He was informed that the assessments would be arranged so that the abutting property owners would pay for the street improvement and an assessment on all the property in that section to take care of the expenses of the culvert, but in order to do this it is necessary to throw the whole matter into an assessment district.

Plans and specifications, etc., for the improvement of Acacia street were adopted and Resolution No. 231 calling for the improvement of Acacia street between Brand boulevard and Central avenue were read and adopted.

The following claims were allowed and ordered paid:
City Towel Supply.....$ 1.90
J. A. Newton Electric Co..... 27.80
Public Playgrounds Com..... 50.00

The claim of $7.52 for the Home Telephone Co. was held up until next meeting. Some of the board was in favor of having the Home phone taken out of the city building unless the service was donated, the same as the Sunset phone.

On motion of Trustee Henry the board adjourned until July 3 at 7:30 p. m.

AN OLD BONE OF CONTENTION

There are very few young people who realize that Sicily has been fought over more than any other country or place in the world. In ancient times it was under the sway of Carthage and it has been conquered successively by the Greeks, Romans, Saracens, Normans, French and Spanish. The majority of the people of Sicily speak a dialect of Italian which has in it a strong admixture of Spanish. In some parts of Sicily, however, one may find villages where the ancient Greek and French are spoken as the common language.

There is one very interesting town of Sicily, Castrogiovanni, which is known as the Italian "Saracen Kasr Jhani," or the Fortress of John. This was besieged for twenty-four years, and in all that time the people did not once step outside of the town walls. Many children were born and grew to manhood without once leaving the town.

Another interesting fact about Sicily is that more oranges and lemons are produced here than in any other part of the world. The greater portion of the world's supply of sulphur is mined in Sicily.—Selected.

"It's good to put a bother away over night. It often straightens out by the morning. It takes some people a long time to find out that it never pays to worry."

ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR THE

Cleveland

Out of fifty-eight starters in the annual 24 hour Worcester Endurance Run, nine finished. Two of them were Cleveland Light Motorcycles, the only lightweights entered in the run.

Never in the experience of such veterans as "Cannonball" Baker, John U. Constant, and other stars, were there encountered riding conditions to equal those found in that terrible day-and-night grind. Roads washed out by rain tempests that raged throughout the entire run, hills given up as hopeless by the majority of heavyweight riders because of the constantly shifting mass of mud and boulders with which they were strewn—such were the obstacles that ended the riding efforts of forty-nine out of fifty-eight starters—and the CLEVELAND LIGHT MOTORCYCLE came through it all.

For lightweight machines the course was cut short to 360 miles, but the two Cleveland riders who finished the terrible run, Waughop and Spurgeon, declared they would much rather have followed the heavyweight schedule, as the short cut was worse, infinitely worse, in its 30 miles of rocky, muddy, twisting hills than the heavyweight road.

When riding schedule and road conditions are so bad that nearly nine-tenths of the riders, all veteran road pluggers, are forced to quit, and the CLEVELAND LIGHT MOTORCYCLE finishes—what's the answer.

THE BIG MERRY-GO-ROUND

(A Song for a Child)

A merry-go-round is in the sky
That's turning night and day,
Fast as a dream it whirls on high
So bright we cannot see it fly,
All formed of light's pure ray—
Hark, little rogue, I say.

Listen, it takes the stars along
That up in heaven gleam.
Through space it bears them swift and strong,
And as it goes it makes a song
So delicate we only seem
To hear the music in a dream.

In dreams we hear it from afar,
From heaven with brightness crowned,
How glad, you rogue, your dreams
then are.

And we turn with in on a star;
Never too fast, we've found,
Goes the big merry-go-round!
—Translated from the German of Richard Dehmelt, by Charles Wharton Stork.

I woke up last night with the feeling that my gold watch was gone. The impression was so strong that I got up to look.

"Well, was it gone?"
"No, but it was going!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Into the well which supplies thee with water, cast no stones.—Talmud.

VICTORIAN MODES RETURN

By MARGARET MASON

Said the porcelain dog to the china cat,
As they sat ensconced on the crochet mat:
"It's great to be back from the anti-quary."

Said the china cat to the dog: "Oh, very."

NEW YORK, June 28.—The answer to what next, my dears, is what not. Now what do you think of that? Nothing more nor less than the old fashioned whatnot is what we may expect if the craze for Victorian modes extends from our clothes to our homes at the rate it is spreading. At the moment of going to press we have with us in the midst of our smartest homes today all the wherewithal to deck that atrocity of old-fashioned taste, the whatnot, so why not go the limit and drag it down from the garret, dust off its shelves and set it up in the chosen corner. Truly the porcelain dog and the china cat, the glass flowers and the framed sampler can never feel at home outside a whatnot environment.

Indeed it is only fitting that we should have a proper setting for our hoopskirts and scollops, our fichues and bell sleeves, our shoulder capes and poke bonnets; hence undoubtedly the revival of the smirking porcelain poodle door-stops, the green and yellow china parrots swaying in gilded hoops, the worsted embroidered firescreens and footrests that now infest the truly modern and artistic hearth and home.

The crocheted and braided rag rugs are on all our smartest floors, lying in wait for the voluminous silken skirts of the good old days to trail over them. But alas! no silken skirts can touch them now in these the days of highwater ballet effects. Daguerreotypes of Grandpa as a soldier and Grandma as a bride adorn the mantelpiece, sharing the honors with an urn-shaped pot-pourri jar of purple glass.

Our smartest billeted cushions are penned with gay-hued quilts that rest as in the days of yore in little painted glass jars half filled with gleaming shot. On rush bottomed chairs we rest (?), whose high straight backs are festive with painted garlands on their painted cross pieces. The castor and the urn-shaped knife and fork cases reign on our antique Shertons buffets. Majolica fruit baskets, soup tureens and colored glass cake stands have broken in on our smartest tables and are being broken in our smartest kitchens.

Above stairs we spurn electric lights and grope our divers ways to bed with bayberry candles in pewter candle sticks equipped with quaint and ancient snuffers. Crawling under the rose of Sharen patchwork quilt we fall to sleep to dream that we may yet be overtaken by a visitation of gilded pine cones, gilded rolling pins, gilded ginger beer jugs, stuffed melon pincushions, castles-in-the-air and wax wreaths under glass for all the world like mushrooms—"sous cloche" only not so gastronomically edifying. No doubt we'll awake screaming and jump from bed only to stumble over the porcelain poodle and the china cat.

"TITANIC" WHEAT

The department has recently been advised by a correspondent in California that a variety of wheat is being advertised under the name "Titanic." The assertion is made that it is a new variety of wheat discovered in England about four years ago, and that a small quantity of seed was brought to the United States by one of the survivors of the ill-fated Titanic. The wheat is represented as having extremely high yielding power, the returns reaching as high as 7,000-fold. A photograph sent by this correspondent shows a head identical in appearance with the widely exploited "Alaska" wheat. Five acres of the wheat are said to be growing in the State of Washington, and the seed, it is believed, will be offered at high prices after harvest. The department has no further or more definite information concerning this variety, but farmers and dealers are cautioned to be on their guard concerning this new exploitation.

COOKING DOUBLE

There are few things that cannot be prepared and cooked without another meal in mind. When cooking rice, to be served plain as a vegetable or mixed with eggs and chives, after a Chinese recipe, for dinner, cook enough to serve cold the next morning for breakfast, with prunes and cream—a delectable dish. Never make shortcakes except in pairs. It takes little more time at the moment, and the cold one may be reheated the second day, filled with blackberries, raspberries, or peaches instead of strawberries, and be quite as good as the first. A can of corn, when opened, will offer enough more than the immediate meal requires to make delicious corn fritters for luncheon next day. Double each item of cooking and see how much time and effort are saved.

"Little boy, do you understand what is meant by energy and enterprise? One of our richest men came here without a shirt on his back, and now he has got millions."

"Millions! How many does he put on at a time?"

CELLS OF HUMAN BODY

O. H. JONES TELLS OF THE STRUCTURE OF THE PHYSICAL SYSTEM

Every living thing, whether animal or vegetable, is made up of cells.

A cell is the smallest element of an organized body that manifests independent vital activity; a morphological or structural unit. Cells are composed of jelly-like material (protoplasm), and are usually provided with an envelope and a central body (nucleus). The whole organism in certain lower animals and plants are composed of, and all forms of life originate in, a simple cell, and the tissues of the more developed structures are an aggregation of cells, and their products.

The nucleus of a cell is a central point or part about which matter is aggregated; a center of growth; a kernel; figuratively, a center of development or essential existence, a differentiated round oval body embedded in the protoplasm of a cell; it is surrounded by a delicate membrane, the nuclear membrane, and is composed of a nucleoplasm, a network of linin, and chromatin granules. The most essential functions, such as metabolism, growth, and reproduction, are carried on chiefly by means of this organ.

Protoplasm is the viscid, contractile, semi-liquid, more or less granular substance that forms the principal portion of the animal cell. Chemically it is a mixture of 80 to 85 per cent water and 15 to 20 per cent solids, chiefly proteins, with a small quantity of fat, carbohydrates like glycogen, and linosite, and mineral salts, especially those of potassium, which cause it to yield an alkaline reaction. In also contains carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen.

Protoplasm has been called by Huxley, owing to its presence in all organized bodies, the physical basis of life.

There are four types of free-living animal cells: the amoeba, the euglena, the paramicium, and the stentor.

The free-living animal cell takes something from its environment and returns something to it. It takes into itself a variety of organized substances together with small quantities of mineral salts. These constitute its food. It receives also a small supply of oxygen. The function of oxygen is not to promote constructive processes, but to release energy, a process of decomposition in which the stores of the cells are sacrificed, thus producing heat and energy.

The free-living animal cell is thus an accumulator of fuel and a furnace in which it is burnt.

The cell which in itself is a complete living thing, must perform all the essential activities for itself—the preparation of crude food, locomotion, growth, reproduction, etc.

Cells reproduce themselves and multiply by cleaving; that is, a mature cell in the process of reproduction divides itself into separate parts, thus forming perfect cells. This division goes on to infinity.

It is to be observed that it is solely by multiplication and differentiation of cells, as they have descended more or less perfect from the original germ cell, that organized development and growth take place.

Growth takes place only from the multiplication and differentiation of cells. The larger animals are made up of structural units or cells, assembled in vast numbers.

The cells comprising the animal body are of common descent, but have taken on widely different characteristics and have become adapted to particular functions.

In the higher animals, although the first protoplasmic particle subdivides itself into an aggregation of particles or cells, yet there soon appears a structural differentiation of organs for special use, which is more elaborate and heterogeneous as the type approaches the human structure.

In a living full-sized human body there are millions upon millions of little cells working together to a common end, dividing the task between them, in building and repairing the different parts of the body, living each for itself at the same time as for the others, preserving itself, feeding itself, reproducing itself, responding to the menace of danger by appropriate defensive reactions.

Like a sentinel on guard, the cells are always on duty. If a wound occurs in any part of the body, the remaining uninjured cells are always on hand to begin the necessary work of repair to heal the breach, if the proper materials are provided.

Cells are constantly being worn out and destroyed, and new cells take their place.

The human body is an aggregate of cells, and as each cell is a separate living entity in itself, it follows that every part of body has life within itself—it is alive with life.

The House Not Made With Hands

Beginning with the union of the male and female egg or cell, which unite to form the human body, the cells continue to multiply and differentiate, until a perfect body is formed prior to birth. But the work does not stop with birth. After birth the work of multiplication and differentiation continues until the body reaches maturity, and all the different parts have been perfected. The work continues till the bones have been built up to their full length and size, and all the muscles, cords, tendons, ligaments, membranes, heart, liver, lungs, and all the organs and parts of the body have been completed, and the skin expanded to allow of the expansion of the body.

Did you ever stop to think how your body was built up in the beginning? No, of course not. Now just consider it for a moment. None of the growth takes place from the outside of the body. From its earliest inception, all the work of building up the body, or any animal body, proceeds from the inside. All the bones of the body are formed, lengthened, and enlarged; the heart, liver, lungs, arteries, veins, intestines, membranes, and all the other organs and parts are formed from within; and the skin is expanded from within itself to admit of this internal growth.

The cells of the human body are so small that from 125 to 5000 can be placed in a line and make a column of only one inch in length; that is, the cells are only from 1-125 to 1-5000 of an inch in diameter.

All growth is the result of the vital principle called life, which animates earthly elements and marshals them into the living or animal body. This life principle is manifested in the cell. The cell is the beginning of life. The living body is alive in all its parts; each minute cell or particle, each microscopic thread, has a life of its own. A bit of tissue placed beneath a microscope shows it to be made up of separate, distinct, perfectly formed, and exceedingly minute parts, varying greatly in shape, color, and use, but all comprised under the general name of cells. This is true of all living forms. The cell is within itself a complete living thing. It contains within itself the properties of self-repair, growth and reproduction.

Cells multiply by division, or cleaving into similar parts. The cell is an individual or structural unit. The union of the cells or units, and their continued multiplication and combination into a compact form, like the human body, constitutes growth. The bodies of the larger animals may be regarded as a community made up of millions of cells, every one of which is an independent, living organism, but all more or less mutually dependent.

There are many different kinds of cells in the body, just as there are many different kinds of people and workmen in a community. People differ in size, in color, in disposition, and in occupation. The same is true of cells. Each cell is an individual, independent workman. In the body, cells having the same occupation, the same work or functions, are generally grouped together, so that they may assist one another in their work. A group of such cells is called an organ. Each organ is composed of a few simple structures, or tissues. The whole body is made up of these elements, which are variously combined and arranged to form the several organs. A large part of the work of the cells of the body consists in the development and repair of these tissues.

Those portions of the body which correspond to the lean meat of animals are made up of muscular tissue, formed by the muscle cells.

The brain and nerves are composed of cells and fibers possessed of properties the most remarkable to be found in living creatures. The cells and fibers constitute nervous tissue.

PROFIT IN ORCHARD RENOVATION

A county agent in Massachusetts began, in 1914, a demonstration in the renovation of some old apple orchards. The following year from a 2-acre orchard heavily infested with San Jose scale when the demonstration was begun a net profit of $210.77 was realized after paying spray materials, man and horse labor, 5 per cent interest on the land, trees, and working capital, taxes, and all other expenses incident to the proper management of the orchard.

The net cost of developing young orchards in the same county has been reduced greatly by growing cash crops among the trees, as suggested by the county agent. In the case of an 8-acre young orchard the crop so grown in 1915 met all the costs of the year properly chargeable, besides paying for some permanent improvements, and lacked only $10.88 of paying for the trees, planting, etc.

AN ORTHODOX YELL

Rev. C. L. Thackery, rector of the Episcopal church at Watsonville, is a private in Company L. He is finding army life pretty hard but he keeps smiling and perpetuates good cheer among the members of the company. The reverend Mr. Thackery in conversation with the Rev. G. R. E. MacDonald of Fresno, chaplain of the second regiment, said: "Chaplain, I have a terrible confession to make."

"Confess," directed the Rev. Mr. MacDonald.

"Well," continued Thackery, "while we were on our way to Sacramento, gloom and depression occasioned by departure from the old town began to spread among the boys. When one of them whipped out a harmonica and played 'Home, Sweet Home' it made things worse. I couldn't stand it, so I jumped up and suggested a company yell. With the assistance of several of the others I framed up the following:

"Company L, Company L,
"We're the boys that
"Will give 'em hell
"Watsonville!"

"It wasn't long before the whole train was ringing with the shout. Now, what's bothering me is—Is that yell strictly orthodox?"

Chaplain MacDonald replied: "As an army chaplain I will say that under the circumstances, it is."

"I feel better now," commented Thackery. "My conscience is clear."

THE RETURN OF SUMMER

The warm scent of the pinewood seemed to me
The first true breath of summer;
Did you see
The waxen hurt-bells with their promised fruit
Already purple at the blossom's root,
And thick among the rusty bracken strown
Sunburnt anemones long overblown?
Summer is come at last!

How beautiful the world is when it breathes
The news of summer!—when the bronzy sheathes
Still hang about the beech-leaf, and the oaks.
Are wearing still their dainty tasselled cloaks,
While on the hillside every Hawthorn pale
Has taken down her balmy bridal veil,
And, down below, the drowsy murmuring stream
Lulls the warm noonday in an endless dream.
—Henry Newbolt.

"'Tis easy to see," said the tourist to Paddy, who was driving him around, "that your parents came from Ireland."

"No, sir, they did not," replied Paddy.

"What! Do you mean to say your parents did not come from Ireland?"
"No, sir, you're mistaken," replied Paddy, "they're there yit."

Bring good cheer to the family table—the pleasant happenings of the day, and not those which were disagreeable.—Exchange.

I LIVE HERE

A garden, a perfect mosaic, deep green 'gainst the blackest of loam.

Spread out near a little log cabin—but immaculate home!

I paused to admire—who could help it?—the weedless expanse near the door.

Where, pleased with my pleased inspection, stood a "Mammy" of years that are yore.

"A beautiful garden," I ventured. She cupped a brown hand to her ear.

"Fine garden!" I shouted. "Oh, sholy! It ought to be fine—I live here!"

I went on my way with a sermon as great as I ever had heard; The highest paid preacher exstant could never have added a word.

Were every human who cumbers the tiniest spot on the earth
To see that the place he inhabits—the work brain or fingers give birth—

Stood perfect as e'er he could make it—dear God, what a different sphere!

Let's borrow our motto from "Mammy": "It ought to be fine—I live here!"

—Strickland Gillilan.

CANDY FOR THAT TIRED FEELING

"Prodigious quantities of sweets" are reported as being supplied to the soldiers in the trenches. One captain says that there has been a call for five times as much candy, and only one-fifth as much beer as was expected. The soldiers have discovered what scientists knew before, that sugar will relieve fatigue quickly and give a sense of strength that is real. Sugar and candies are found to be useful not only to the physically tired, but to those who suffer mental exhaustion. Still, it is possible to eat too much, even of candy.—Selected.

THE FOUR-LEAFED CLOVER

The queen of the fairies on a day
Was busy making clover;
And, when the task was done, she found
She had one leaf left over.

At first she knew not what to do,
Indeed, was almost frightened
To waste a whole great clover leaf.
But suddenly she brightened.
Then, calling her assistants, said,
"I find, in making clover,
I must have somewhere counted wrong—
Here is a leaf left over.

"So haste and bring me quickly here
A clover from the meadows;
And I will tell it lovely tales
Of sunshine without shadows,

"Of merry hearts and happy days
And hours of rarest pleasure;
Of smiling faces, dancing feet,
And rapture without measure.

"And then I will tell it to it affix
This leaf which is left over;
Good luck will always follow him
Who finds a four-leafed clover."
—The Independent.
